PROJECT OVERVIEW

Since the beginning of COVID-19, the Fulton County Court System has amassed a significant and unprecedented level of cases. Project ORCA will address this challenge by utilizing a combination of capacity expansion and productivity enhancement initiatives to expedite the case adjudication process.

The COVID-19 Case Resolution Project began on December 6, 2021 with 149,200 open and active cases.

As of November 13, 2022, there are 62,686 pending open and active cases.

CASE ACCUMULATION DEFINED

All cases (hearings, filings, applications) that were initiated before and during the pandemic (including those currently awaiting formal charging or filing) that have been impacted due to current limitations at various stages of the case administration process.

Since the pandemic, the Georgia Public Defender Council has lost nearly all of its C-3 lawyers for Fulton County. These lawyers are integral in moving forward certain defendants' cases that are unable to be represented by the Public Defender's Office or the Conflict Defender's Office.

The C-3 Attorney Appointment Process will address Fulton's nearly 120 in-custody defendants that require representation. The framework is set, initial requirements have been met and the current updates are as follows:

- 54 attorneys have expressed interest in assisting
- 12 attorneys have executed contracts
- The first random attorney assignments were issued on October 27th
- The assignments are issued starting with the oldest pending case per judge and according to the level of case that the attorney is qualified to try

PROCESS ENHANCEMENTS ACCOMPLISHMENTS

The Capacity Expansion Project at Sloppy Floyd will be ready for use in early December 2022!

- ✓ There are two finished courtroom spaces complete with jury rooms and judicial chambers; one in each tower of the building
- ✓ These spaces will be made available for civil matters only
- ✓ The courtrooms will be available by reservation through the CMS software and security, badging and general ticket requests will be handled by designated staff in both Superior and State Courts

*Please note that 2018-2020 figures represent the investments based on the former priority area "All People Trust Government is Efficient, Effective, and Fiscally Sound"

Arts & Library Priority Area Report

In order to deliver on the citizen-centric priority above, Fulton County government must recruit and develop a competent, engaged workforce and maintain a collection of facilities, equipment and technology that enables high performance. In addition, the County must manage its finances wisely and develop and follow policies that promote both efficient and effective practices. Finally, the government must promote trust among its citizens by regularly reporting on its performance, conducting itself in a transparent and legal manner, and engaging with its residents in setting the direction of county government.

Increased Respiratory Virus Activity, Especially Among Children, Early in the 2022-2023 Fall and Winter

Distributed via the CDC Health Alert Network
November 04, 2022, 3:30 PM ET
CDCHAN-00479

Summary

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is issuing this Health Alert Network (HAN) Health Advisory about early, elevated respiratory disease incidence caused by multiple viruses occurring especially among children and placing strain on healthcare systems. Co-circulation of respiratory syncytial virus (RSV), influenza viruses, SARS-CoV-2, and others could place stress on healthcare systems this fall and winter. This early increase in disease incidence highlights the importance of optimizing respiratory virus prevention and treatment measures, including prompt vaccination and antiviral treatment, as outlined below.

Background

Many respiratory viruses with similar clinical presentations circulate year-round in the United States and at higher levels in fall and winter. In the past 2 years, respiratory disease activity has been dominated by SARS-CoV-2, and seasonal circulation of other respiratory viruses has been atypical or lower than pre-COVID-19 pandemic years. Currently, the U.S. is experiencing a surge and co-circulation of respiratory viruses other than SARS-CoV-2. CDC is tracking levels of respiratory syncytial virus (RSV), influenza, and rhinovirus/enterovirus (RV/EV) that are higher than usual for this time of year, especially among children, though RV/EV levels may have plateaued in recent weeks. SARS-CoV-2 also continues to circulate in all U.S. states.

RSV

CDC surveillance has shown an increase in RSV detections and RSV-associated emergency department visits and hospitalizations in all but two U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) regions (regions 4 and 6), with some regions already near the seasonal peak levels typically observed in December or January. This year, rates of RSV-associated hospitalizations began to increase during late spring and continued to increase through the summer and into early fall. Preliminary data from October 2022 show that weekly rates of RSV-associated hospitalizations among children younger than 18 years old are higher than rates observed during similar weeks in recent years. While RSV activity appears to be plateauing in some places, the timing, intensity, and severity of the current RSV season are uncertain.

Influenza

CDC has been tracking early and increasing influenza activity in recent weeks. The highest levels of influenza activity have been found in the southeast and south-central parts of the country. The most common viruses identified to date have been influenza A(H3N2) viruses, with most infections occurring in children and young adults. Cumulative influenza-associated hospitalization rates for children (age 0–4 years and 5–17 years) and all ages combined are notably higher compared to the same time periods during previous seasons since 2010–2011. Although the timing, intensity, and severity of the 2022–2023 influenza season are uncertain, CDC anticipates continued high-level circulation of influenza viruses this fall and winter.

SARS-CoV-2

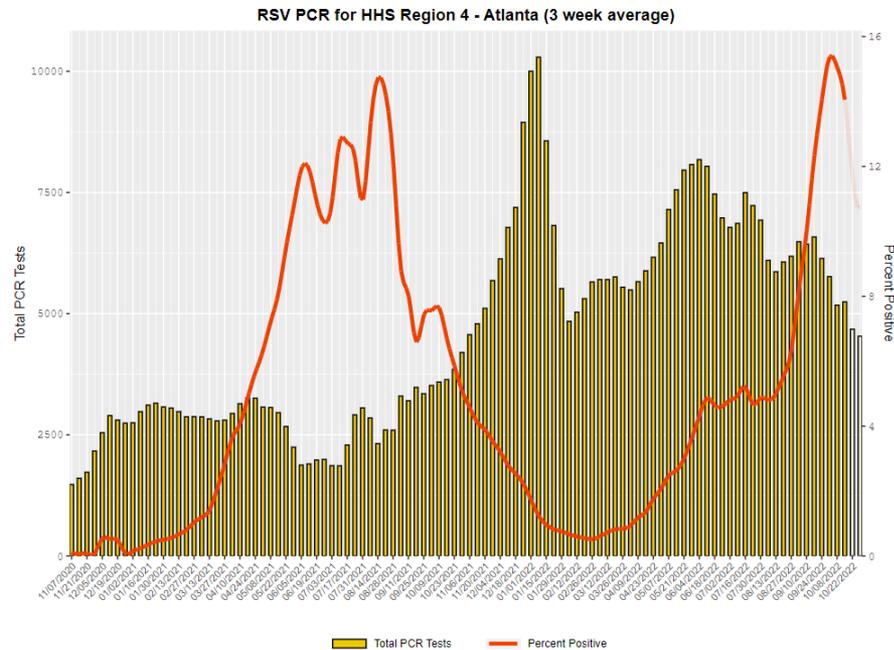

CDC data are available to monitor COVID-19 community levels, which are based on hospitalization and case data and can be used to track SARS-CoV-2 activity. SARS-CoV-2 activity is expected to increase in the winter as has been observed in previous

What is Fentanyl

- Fentanyl is a synthetic opioid
- 2 mg of fentanyl (10-15 grams of table salt) is a lethal dose
- Fentanyl is hidden in street drugs
- It cannot be detected by sight or taste
- It is difficult to differentiate between a fentanyl-laced and an authentic prescription drug

✓ Opioid Focus Groups

We are facilitating focus groups to improve the opioid program's response to overdoses in Fulton County. Information gathered will identify barriers to accessing treatment and recovery services.

Partnering with Community Recovery Organizations

We work closely with the following organizations in provide supplies, educational information, and support.

- R2ISE Recovery Theater
- One John's Creek Coalition
- Peers Empowering Peers
- Recovery Resources of Atlanta Midtown

Narcan Kits and Training for First Responders

We are partnering with the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities and the Georgia Public Safety Training Center. We have been chosen to receive a quarterly supply of Narcan.

DRUG TRENDS IN JOHNS CREEK
MAY 12, 2022
7:30-9 AM BREAKFAST AT THE STANDARD CLUB

Let's Talk
A Community Conversation

According to the CDC, over 100,000 people died of a drug overdose in 2021 which represents a 16% increase from the year prior. About 66% of those deaths involved synthetic opioids such as fentanyl, a stronger and faster-acting drug than natural opiates. Come and hear from a panel of experts in our community on the latest trends and how they impact our youth.

City of Johns Creek, Georgia - Government
May 13 at 3:26 PM

Mayor John Bradberry, Council members Bob Erramilli, Stacy Skinner, and Larry DiBiase, and Fulton County Commissioner Liz Hausmann attended the Johns Creek Chamber of Commerce's "Let's Talk: Drug Trends in Johns Creek" breakfast event Thursday morning at The Standard Club.

Attendees listened to a panel discussion about the latest trends impacting youth in the community. The panel included Johns Creek Police Chief Mark Mitchell, Lieut. Michael McCarron, JCAF Task Force, Forsyth County Sheriff's Office; Beatrice King, Fulton County Opioid Public Health Analyst; and Katy Freud, AC-HIDTA Public Health Analyst.

The panel discussed opioid-related topics such as overdose intervention, the impact of COVID-19 on narcotics use, partnerships between law enforcement and the community, and personal anecdotes about loved ones affected by addiction.

Narcan Training for First Responders

FOR FIRST RESPONDERS

An opioid overdose can turn fatal in as little as 6 minutes, but naloxone can reverse it almost instantly. Administered through a nasal spray or injection, it restores breathing and oxygen flow by binding to receptors in the brain and blocking the effects of an overdose.

What's needed?

- Visit a Recovery Community Organization
- Get involved with Harm Reduction
- Address the social determinants of health that lead to substance use and mental health challenges.
- Provide funding for Narcan for first responders (Fire, EMS, and Law Enforcement).
- Engage people who are most impacted by substance use and listen to their voices
